

Natural Deodorants

Smell Ya Later

The bad news: There's no such thing as a chemical-free antiperspirant. The good news: The latest batch of natural deodorants on the market aren't half bad. After one too many disappointments with hippie staples like baking soda and the Crystal, we tried a cross-section of products available on the shelves of Whole Foods (and recruited a good-natured men's soccer team for patch testing). The longest-lasting, least-foul-smelling winners? See below.
